

Farmers and food producers, although our services are available remotely, we are here to help.

We are currently providing farmers with support to hire workers, and giving wage subsidies to help pay for the cost of hired labour. If you are struggling with staff shortages due to a depleted workforce, we can assist in raising staffing rates to meet increased demands.

If you are looking for employment support for your farm-related business, we can help you with:

- accessing government funding for wage subsidies
- employee training incentives
- programs to help hire and train employees for your business

Georgian College Career and Employment Community Services has helpful resources for employers and job seekers, from resumé and cover letter development to career planning, and access to local job postings. We help employers access wage subsidies, training incentives and government grant funding.
